Description: This iOS app is based off of the current University of Colorado newspaper called the CUIndependent (or CUI). This app simply shows current news articles that come from their website. This app will have a main window with top stories and a scrolling view. When the image, title, or description is clicked, an article view will pop up that shows the current article with a scrolling view. The article information comes from JSON URL's and will need to be parsed and decoded.
